

Quiz 01 – Chapter 01 – Introduction to the World of Computers [25 Marks, 15 Minutes]

Name: _____

Roll No: _____

Question 1: [1x4 marks] [estimated time 3 minutes]

Write the letter of the term that best matches each of the following descriptions in the blank to the left of its description.

- a) Application software
- b) Operating system
- c) Programming language
- d) Web browser

- 1. d - Web browser
- 2. b - Operating system
- 3. a - Application software
- 4. c - Programming language

Question 2: [1x9 marks] [estimated time 4 minutes]

For the following list of computer hardware devices, indicate the principal function of each device by writing the appropriate letter—I (input device), O (output device), S (storage device), P (processing device), or C (communications device)—in the space provided.

- 5. CPU ___P___
- 6. Monitor ___O___
- 7. Mouse ___I___
- 8. Keyboard ___I___
- 9. Hard drive ___S___
- 10. Modem ___C___
- 11. Speakers/ ___O___
- 12. DVD drive ___I___
- 13. Microphone ___I___

Question 3: [2x4 marks] [estimated time 3 minutes]

Supply the missing words to complete the following statements

- 14. Network
- 15. homepage
- 16. user name, domain
- 17. billg@microsoft.com

Question 4: [4 marks] [estimated time 5 minutes]

- 18. What are three differences between a desktop computer and a portable computer?

DESKTOP

- It needs external devices to be fully functional.
- It is large in size.
- It can have multiple internal drives.
- It is not portable.
- It runs only on main power supply.
- External keyboard and mouse are necessary to work.
- It has a more powerful processor.
- It has a wide range of screen size.
- The repairing of desktops is easy to work as compared to laptops.
- Components of the desktop can be easily removed.
- The number of data ports are more in desktops.

LAPTOP

- It is an all-in-one computer system.
- While it is small in size.
- It can have limited internal drives.
- While it is easily portable.
- While it can run on battery, AC supply, and main power supply too.
- Keyboard and mouse are in-built. However external keyboard and mouse also can be used.
- It has a less powerful processor except for gaming laptops.
- While the range of screen size in laptops is limited.
- While the repairing of laptops is a little complex.
- Components of laptops are not easily removable.
- The number of data ports are less in laptops.